

FACT SHEET

Unlike any other facility in our region, Centennial Medical Center at Ashland City is proud to offer the residents of Cheatham County access to the most comprehensive, high quality services from maternity to maturity. Meeting each patient's individualized healthcare needs is our goal.

Through our tertiary facility, Centennial Medical Center, we provide Middle Tennessee with the most complete mix of medical services. Centennial provides Cheatham County residents direct access to The Women's Hospital at Centennial, the region's first freestanding hospital dedicated exclusively to the care of women; Parthenon Pavilion, Nashville's first full-service psychiatric hospital; and The Sarah Cannon Cancer Center, Tennessee's leading cancer program. Centennial Tower houses the region's most advanced tertiary care treatment capabilities and has become one of the leading cardiac centers in the country.

Centennial Medical Center at Ashland City has been awarded Top 100 specialty designations for the superior care of stroke and orthopaedics, and is one of only a small number of hospitals in the U.S. to earn multiple Top 100 specialty awards.

To maintain that comprehensive continuum of care, Centennial Medical Center at Ashland City now offers our area enhanced on-site healthcare options including expanded round-the-clock emergency room services, along with basic stat labs and an emergency blood bank. We also provide radiology, fluoroscopy, CT scanning, ultrasound, mammography/imaging services, outpatient surgical services and endoscopy services. Now Centennial Medical Center at Ashland City also has physician specialists on staff in the areas of gastroenterology, urology, orthopaedics, general surgery, pulmonary, oncology, gynecology and family practice.

Centennial Medical Center at Ashland City is an equal opportunity employer, regardless of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age or disability as required by state and federal law.
